Philly school goes green

A Philadelphia school has been nominated for the U.S. Department of Education Green Ribbon Schools award. The program recognizes schools that save energy, reduce costs and feature environmentally sustainable learning practices. Springside Chestnut Hill Academy is among four schools in Pennsylvania nominated. DOE will announce the winning schools April 23.

Chaput chides the president

Archbishop Charles Chaput announced his new e-book, "A Heart on Fire," available March 27. Published by Doubleday, the book is an "extended essay" urging Catholic activism in public life. In it, Chaput takes aim at President Barack Obama, calling him "unreceptive – or frankly hostile – to religious engagement in public affairs."

SEPTA, transit cops meet, but strike still on

PHILADELPHIA. SEPTA and its transit police were back at the bargaining table Thursday night, but no agreement had been announced at press time.

U.S. Rep. Bob Brady helped get the two sides together after officers went on strike Wednesday shortly before 2 p.m. The Fraternal Order of Transit Police, which represents 219 sworn officers, has been without a contract for a year. It claims the sticking point was $200,000 annually in certification pay for officers who complete regular training. During the strike, city police have patrolled the system.

Council: Nutter, talk with unions

PHILADELPHIA. City Council passed legislation Thursday sponsored by Wilson Goode, Jr. urging Mayor Michael Nutter to negotiate a fair contract with the city's municipal workers.

Representatives from AFSCME District Council 33 and D.C. 47 swarmed the podium during public testimony to talk about hardships they and their families have suffered as a result of not receiving raises or increased contributions to their pension funds in the three years they have gone without a contract. ● METRO/AW

Squilla: Halt reassessments

CITY HALL. Councilman Mark Squilla introduced legislation that would put the breaks on the actual value property tax initiative, which some have criticized as a backdoor tax hike, for a year while members of Council gather more information about its consequences.

Details of controversial merger released by NJ

► Rutgers-Camden would become part of Rowan in 14 months ► Rutgers-Camden chancellor rails against plan

The official plan for merging Rutgers-Camden into Rowan University was issued Thursday.

The combined school, which will also be affiliated with Cooper University Hospital and Coriell Institute for Medical Research, will be designated a research university and headquartered in Glassboro. The transition will take 14 months.

The new Rowan University will have a common curriculum in place for the 2013-14 school year. Students enrolled at Rutgers-Camden prior to that can get a Rutgers diploma; students enrolling after that will get a Rowan diploma, regardless of which campus they attend. The common curriculum currently used at Rutgers-Camden will be phased out.

Some services for Rutgers Camden, such as IT, the library and payroll, are currently handled through the New Brunswick campus. These will be moved to Rowan and appropriate funding to support them will be provided. The blending of student services, such as advising and financial aid, will also occur during the transition.

"We agree that increased investment in higher education in South Jersey is important. We agree that South Jersey deserves to grow its research capacity. Rutgers-Camden does not believe that the proposal to merge Rutgers-Camden into Rowan achieves that goal."

A committee will work separately on issues involving the student body, including athletic programs.

One of the main reasons for the merger is to improve the combined schools' ability to attract research funding. The two campuses currently have about $26 million in grants; the plan projects doubling that to at least $50 million by 2020. Endowments and grant funding that have already been given to either campus will stay with that campus.

Merger fallout

► All of Rutgers-Camden's property, assets and state funding will be transferred to Rowan.

► Rowan's board of trustees will expand from 15 members to 25 to include Rutgers representation.

► The current combined enrollment is 20,000. The plan projects growing the student body to a total of 25,000 (20,000 undergrad and 5,000 grad and professional) by the year 2020.

► The plan calls for the combined university to take an increasingly active role in the revitalization of both Camden and Glassboro.

Council offers hedge funds tax breaks

CITY HALL. City Council passed legislation Thursday exempting private investment and hedge funds and their general managers from paying city business taxes.

"We will collect more revenue, not less, from bringing investment funds and the firms in which they invest into the city," said Councilman Bill Green, who introduced the measure. Green said that, ideally, he wants to conduct broader tax reform, but the legislation will serve as a compromise until Philadelphia has a mayor who agrees with his vision. Councilman Curtis Jones, Jr. cast the lone vote against Green's bill. ● METRO

Nutter: Murder rewards, new cops helping

City officials Thursday updated on the Nutter administration's seven-point crime prevention plan announced in late January.

"The plan is beginning to make a huge difference," Ramsey said. Operation Pressure Point 2.0 will launch on April 13 and run until Nov. 1. The city has identified 12 police districts as "hot zones" where the most violent crime occurs and will coordinate with state and federal partners to police them more fully. Officers will be redeployed starting May 1 from administrative and other duties to be back patrolling the 7-10

Murder cases that have been aided by tips through the city's $20,000 rewards for information leading to arrests streets, Ramsey said.

"Surveillance cameras are a tool for police officers, but they are also a deterrent," Nutter said.

Nutter also stressed the importance of community involvement in police work. Since Channel 64 began airing Philadelphia's 100 most wanted, 21 of them have been arrested, he said.

The police's telephone and e-mail tip lines have received over 700 tips since Jan. 26, the date the mayor announced the plan and the Department's text tip line will become operational in April.

▲ ALEXANDRA WIGGLESWORTH

Policy rundown

- As far as prevention and enforcement, a police class of 55 cadets will graduate tomorrow, with classes of 30 graduating June 15 and July 27. Nutter and Police Commissioner Charles Ramsey said that the officers will be deployed on foot patrol to the city's most violent neighborhoods, especially those in the 25th and 22nd Districts.
- The number of surveillance cameras is also increasing —

50 additional cameras will be installed in the 49th and 39th police districts by Sept. 30 and the Department has issued a bid to repair the 71 police surveillance cameras that are broken.

- Furthermore, May 1 will mark the start of the Safe-Cam Business Incentive Program, through which business owners in commercial corridors of targeted high crime areas will be reimbursed 50 percent, or up to $1,000, for surveillance camera systems they install.

Fan charged in Geno's attack ordered to trial

▶ Video of Aurrichio, on the ground, shows men beating him.

▶ NJ man who allegedly attacked Rangers fan to face all charges ▶ One victim testified of beating

A Glassboro, N.J., man has been held for trial on all charges in an attack on two New York Rangers fans in South Philadelphia following the NHL Winter Classic.

The melee, which happened Jan. 2 outside Geno's Steaks on Passyunk Avenue, was captured on a cell phone camera and posted on YouTube. Prosecutors claim Dennis Veteri, 32, was among a group of rowdy Flyers fans who picked a fight with two Rangers fans and then brutally assaulted them.

Michael Janocko testified that he and friend Neal Aurrichio were waiting in line at Geno's when they were sprayed with a cleaning substance by someone. When they looked in the direction of the person who sprayed them they saw a group of men, which allegedly included Veteri, wearing Flyers jerseys and laughing. Janocko said he briefly exchanged words with the men when the confrontation turned physical.

Once the fight ended, Janocko said he and Aurrichio left and drove to a hospital in

New Jersey near their home to get treatment for Aurrichio. Janocko said he later sought treatment and suffered post-concussion syndrome, along with minor cuts and bruises.

Aurrichio, an Iraq war veteran and police officer in Woodbridge, N.J., testified that one of the Flyers fans gave money to the person who sprayed he and Janocko. The fighting ensued, he said, and the last thing he remembered was getting punched in the face and blacking out. Aurrichio said he didn't see who threw the knockout punch.

Assistant District Attorney Francis McCloskey played the video, which seems to show Veteri land the big blow on Aurrichio.

Veteri's attorney, Michael De Fino, tried to argue through questioning that Janocko and Aurrichio initiated the physical contact and that Veteri did not conspire with the other attackers who have not been identified.

SOLOMON D. LEACH
sleach@metro.us

Blow-by-blow testimony

Janocko said one of the men smacked the hat off his head and stepped on it.

Veteri then took off his coat and took a fighting stance. Veteri swung at Janocko and missed when Aurrichio stepped in. Two or three men then began punching Aurrichio.

Philly author looks into mind of OCD — his own

Fletcher Wortmann hates catching a "Monk" rerun even more than you do. But it's not the show's awkward, sporadic comedy that bothers him — at least not primarily. Rather, it's the tidy portrayal of the detective's Obsessive Compulsive Disorder as an asset on the job — as a quirky, concise tool — that touches an already over-worked nerve.

"The hand-washing and the counting and the organizing are the most physical symptoms of the disorder, and they're the ones that people latch onto," says Wortmann of depictions of OCD in popular culture. "People will say, 'Oh you must be really good at editing or organizing.' But the OCD bogs you down and confuses you, frustrates you. There is a terrible agony in it."

In his surprisingly funny, and at times uncomfortably honest, new memoir, "Triggered," Wortmann documents

► Wortmann

"This disorder is so frustratingly absurd that you have to have a sense of humor to survive it." WORTMANN, 25 his lifelong struggles with the disorder, which was finally diagnosed when he was a student at Swarthmore College. While there is plenty of the telltale hand-washing and organizing, it is clear that Wortmann's compulsive rituals are not only highly personal and complex, but debilitating at worst — and devastating on a more regular basis, especially for a teenager with a Catholic guilt complex.

Now pursuing an MFA in creative writing at Temple University, Wortmann, 25, expects to be in treatment for the rest of his life for a disease he doesn't necessarily understand but is learning to live with — and even laugh with.

"Sometimes, humor is the only way to look at it and understand it," he says. "There is a level of absurdity to it."

Gunman dies in hail of bullets as French siege ends

► Policemen stand near a forensic vehicle in front of the building where Mohamed Merah, 23, was living in Toulouse, southwestern France. Mohamed Merah died some hours earlier in the assault of the RAID special police forces.

A 23-year-old gunman suspected of killing seven people in southwestern France in the name of al-Qaeda jumped from a window to his death in a hail of bullets after police stormed his apartment on Thursday.

"At the moment when a video probe was sent into the bathroom, the killer came out of the bathroom, firing with extreme violence," Interior Minister Claude Gueant said, adding that Merah was firing several guns at once.

"In the end, Mohamed Merah jumped from the window with his gun in his hand, continuing to fire. He was found dead on the ground," he told reporters at the scene. Two police commandos were wounded.

Special forces entered the five-story building in a suburb of Toulouse after besieging Merah since early on Wednesday.

Gueant said earlier police hoped to capture Merah, who had confessed to police negotiators to killing three soldiers as well as three Jewish children and a rabbi at a school, alive.

Recovery? Jobless claims hit new low

WASHINGTON. The number of Americans claiming new unemployment benefits dropped to a four-year low last week, offering further evidence the jobs market recovery was gaining traction.

Initial claims for state unemployment benefits fell 5,000 to a seasonally adjusted 348,000, the lowest level since February 2008, the Labor Department said on Thursday. Economists polled by Reuters had forecast claims rising to 354,000 last week. REUTERS

After being offered a plea

In February 2010, two years after the election of President Barack Obama and two years into the recession-inducing financial collapse, a billboard appeared in Wyoming, Minn.: a huge photo of former president George W. Bush asking, "Miss Me Yet?" At that point, most U.S. citizens, Republicans included, were not ready to admit any hint of nostalgia for the presidency that oversaw 9/11, started two deficit-busting wars in the Middle East, tanked the nation's finances with massive tax cuts for the rich, preached deregulation on Wall Street and made torture sound like a day at the beach. In 2008, as candidates scrambled to distance themselves from the toxic legacy, W. was a nonentity and "Bush" was reduced to a four-letter word.

Now that veneer of shame has begun to creep away.

On Wednesday, Mitt Romney invoked the great decider in the grand GOP game of spinning bad news as Obama-related and good news as meaningless coincidence. "I keep hearing the president say that he's responsible for keeping America from going into a Great Depression," Romney said. "No, no, no. That was President George W. Bush."

Romney here refers to the Troubled Asset Relief Program, the poorly negotiated federal bailout program that attempted to avert a more severe recession through billions in government giveaways to the financial sector. (Apparently the federal government can spend taxpayer money to restore the economy only under a Republican presidency.) Of course, Romney pointedly ignores the successful auto bailouts, which he strongly opposed, and other stimulus measures that injected much-needed dollars into the U.S. economy to save millions of jobs. Clearly, some memories are more readily recalled than others.

Then there's the matter of Karl Rove, whom Bush credited as "the architect" of his 2004 election, the brains behind the old "Mission Accomplished" ruse. This man, who could teach a washing machine a thing or two about spin and who is pulling the strings of American Crossroads — the super PAC "100 percent dedicated to rescuing our economy from the Obama agenda" — is trying to pass himself off as an objective journalist.

In a Wall Street Journal op-ed Wednesday, Rove set out to dispute the claims of a new Obama re-election video, questioning everything from the fact that the president faced a serious economic crisis to the very existence of cause-and-effect itself. Rove dedicates his space in the Murdoch-owned paper to downplaying any Obama successes and propping up the Bush regime.

But then, what else do you expect from these masters of lies? Romney and Rove want us to forget all about what came before so they can mold the future in their own distorted image. So tell us, readers: Do we miss Bush yet? Are we ready for another dose? Are we ready to forget?

John Edwards denies a claim he met NYC hooker

► Former US senator fires back at story that he patronized prostitute who was part of Upper East Side sex ring ► Report claims a one-night Manhattan rendezvous in 2007 ► Demands a retraction, site refuses Former U.S. Sen. John Edwards fired back Thursday at a news site that reported he was a client of a New York City prostitution ring allegedly run by Anna Gristina.

A high-end hooker who allegedly worked for Gristina, the so-called "Millionaire Madam," said she was paid to have sex with Edwards during his campaign for U.S. president, sources told DNAinfo.com, a Manhattan news outlet, on Thursday.

The two hooked up in 2007, the call girl claims, when Edwards came to New York City as part of his presidential campaign to try and drum up donations.

The two allegedly had one rendezvous at an unnamed Upper East Side hotel, according to the report.

But Edwards' lawyer, Allison Van Laningham, told various media outlets Thursday the report was "defamatory."

"Mr. Edwards categorically denies that he was involved with any prostitute or service. These allegations are false, defamatory, and he puts those who would publish or repeat them on notice that they [are] acting with actual malice by reporting or repeating them," Van Laningham said in a statement.

"He has demanded a complete retraction from the only source being quoted," the statement added. Edwards' lawyer, Abbe Lowell, called Thursday and demanded a retraction from DNAinfo.com, the website stated, adding that it refused.

The report cites "sources" who said the call girl provided detailed accounts of their hookup to the Manhattan district attorney's office in 2008. That's when the Manhattan DA first began investigating Gristina's alleged sex ring.

CARLY BALDWIN
carly.baldwin@metro.us

Report promises more names

Despite his strong denials, Edwards may not be the last big name to come out as allegedly part of the high-end sex ring, where hookers were paid up to $2,000 a night. Clients of Anna Gristina, who is currently being held at Rikers, include an internationally known billionaire, Wall Street hedge-funders and even a Middle Eastern sheik, claims DNAinfo.com. METRO/CB

► No criminal charges have been filed against Edwards.

Facing federal trial for Rielle

The former U.S. senator is currently the subject of a looming federal trial in North Carolina. Prosecutors say he used about $1 million in campaign donations to cover up an affair with videographer Rielle Hunter. Edwards is facing charges for breaking federal campaign finance laws, to which he has pleaded not guilty.

► Sanford Police Department Chief Bill Lee, left, speaks while announcing he will temporarily step down in the wake of the Trayvon Martin killing.

Florida police chief steps aside

The police chief of a Florida town where an unarmed black teenager was killed by a neighborhood watch volunteer said on Thursday he would temporarily step down from his job, saying his role in the investigation had become too much of a distraction.

Sanford Police Chief Bill Lee had been heading up the investigation into the killing of 17-year-old Trayvon Martin by watch captain George Zimmerman, 28. The incident has sparked a nationwide public outcry over Florida's "Stand Your Ground" law, which Zimmerman says makes the killing self defense.

Police have declined to arrest Zimmerman.

Lee called himself a distraction and said it had become "apparent that my involvement in the matter is overshadowing the process."

He has been on the job less than one year.

Sanford City Manager Norton Bonaparte, speaking at a press conference at City Hall, said he was starting a search for an interim police chief. In the interim, he said, two current captains will head the police force, which has 140 officers. REUTERS

The purpose of the hearing is to consider the Authority's proposed Fiscal Year 2013 Capital Budget and Fiscal Years 2013-2024 Capital Program and the projects contained therein for which financial assistance is being sought. The total amount of federal and state funds to be received in Fiscal Year 2013 will be determined at the completion of the federal and state budget processes. SEPTA proposes to submit to its funding agencies a program of projects for funding consideration. The federal Section 5307/5340 and Section 5309 Programs of Projects will be available at www.septa.org when they are finalized.

II. At the hearings, SEPTA will afford an opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental aspects of the projects. Interested persons may submit orally, or in writing, evidence and recommendations. Persons wishing to file written comments should forward them to the Office of the General Manager, 10th Floor, 1234 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107-3780. Comments can also be sent via E-mail to capbudget@septa.org. Comments must be received by April 11, 2012, so that they may be forwarded to the Hearing Examiner. Individuals in need of a sign language interpreter, please contact the Office of the General Manager at the address listed above by March 27, 2012. Speakers for the morning and evening sessions must register by 12:30 P.M. and 5:30 P.M., respectively.

III. On or about March 12, 2012, members of the public may obtain a copy of the proposed Capital Budget and Program at SEPTA's website www.septa.org or by requesting, in writing, a copy from the Office of the General Manager at the address listed above.

IV. Audio tape copies of the public hearing notice and summary of the proposed Fiscal Year 2013 Capital Budget and Fiscal Years 2013-2024 Capital Program will be made available for the visually impaired at the office of the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, 919 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19107. An audio version of the public hearing notice and summary will also be available through the Associated Services for the Blind's website at www.asb.org.

WEEKEND

- How 'The Hunger Games' has changed Jennifer Lawrence's life and future
- The star manages to remain calm about the 'Twilight'-esque hype
- She just might need to make sure her weapons are put away a little more carefully now

► Jennifer Lawrence, as Katniss Everdeen, stands among the children to be selected in a lottery for the Hunger Games, a televised battle to the death in a dystopic United States.

The Hunger Games" has changed Jennifer Lawrence's life in at least one way: She's armed now. "I mean, I still have arrows in my car," Lawrence admits. (Her character in the film, Katniss Everdeen, is a talented bow-hunter, so Lawrence has had to master archery.) "I didn't realize that until two of my friends were getting into the backseat of my car and they were like, 'Why do you have spears back here?' In case I get pulled over!"

Lawrence made such an impression in the critically acclaimed "Winter's Bone" — as a hard-luck teen who must provide for her impoverished family — that producers of "The Hunger Games" immediately thought of her for Katniss, a hard-luck teen who must provide for her impoverished family. "White trash with too much responsibility," Lawrence says, comparing the characters, a mischievous grin on her face. "My publicist doesn't like it when I say that."

Lawrence had hesitations about taking the role — and was even close to turning it down outright. "It was so big. I love my life, and there's not a lot of times in a person's life where a yes or no decision can change your life forever and it will never, no matter what, go back to the way it was before."

It's no secret that many are looking to "The Hunger Games" as the new young adult mega-franchise, what with "Twilight" tying up its prolonged victory lap later this year. And parallels have already been drawn between Lawrence and "Twilight" lead Kristen Stewart, an indie actress whose life was transformed by her sudden blockbuster success. But Lawrence is surprisingly immune to the hype that's been built up. "I kind of feel like an idiot because I haven't even thought about it," she says. "Everybody is like, 'The movie is coming out!' And I'm like, 'Yup.' I'm going to look back at myself five years from now and be like, 'You were an idiot. You had no idea what was about to happen.' I just feel this calm because there is nothing I can do. It's kind of like when you say something and that quote is being written — it's kind of like you immediately go into this calm of like, 'Well, there is nothing I can do now!'"

And that was terrifying to me," she admits. "Even from a professional standpoint, I wanted to continue to make small passion projects that I love, and I still want people to be able to lose themselves in my characters. I don't want people to watch something and go, 'Oh yeah, look at what Katniss is doing. Oh, Katniss is wearing a dress.' I didn't want that, but I realized that all of the no's just had to do with me being scared. I didn't want to miss out on something just because I was scared."

How would you fare in the Hunger Games?

We asked some of our favorite comedians on Twitter.

► Baron Vaughn (@Barvonblaq)

"I would lose in the Hunger Games the moment I got hungry."

► Lizz Winstead (@lizzwinstead)

It depends if there are cigarettes...

► Jeffery Self (@JefferySelf)

"If 'The Hunger Games' were real I would definitely be the first person killed. Immediately followed by Fiona Apple and Jojo."

► H. Alan Scott (@HalanScott)

"About 45 seconds. Maybe 50. I'd be killed just as I was trying to figure out how to properly pronounce Katniss. 'Is the 'T' silent?' Or possibly as I learn how to shoot a bow and arrow."

► Is Liam Hemsworth's Gale an Edward or a Jacob? Too soon to tell.

The trilogy is on!

While excitement builds for "The Hunger Games," fans know it's just the beginning of a trilogy, followed by "Catching Fire" and "Mockingjay." Oscar-winning screenwriter Simon Beaufoy — the man behind "Slumdog Millionaire" — is already hard at work on the script for "Catching Fire" under the guidance of author Suzanne Collins. "The Hunger Games' fan base [is] passionate beyond anything I've ever come across," Beaufoy says, "and I would fear for my life [if I get it wrong]. If I do too free an adaptation of that, I shall get firebombed."

Liam Hemsworth, who plays Katniss' homebound pal Gale, is just excited for more screen time. "If we get to shoot the other ones, I will be very happy. My character does grow a lot more in the other ones," he says. "I would be very excited to shoot the third book. There's a big uprising in that one and rebellions. There's a lot of fun stuff."

► V. Arrow's detailed depiction of Panem is based on the phi spiral.

FAN-MADE MAP: 'HUNGER GAMES'

The world of Panem has captivated "The Hunger Games" fans. Now, thanks to a dedicated writer-turned-cartographer, readers can visualize what the fictional region looks like. The meticulously researched map was created by a previously published fiction writer who goes by the pen name V. Arrow.

How she placed the districts

Arrow took clues from the book — North America was said to be destroyed by a cataclysmic event; District 12 is said to have once been Appalachia. She used a phi spiral — a logarithmic shape that gets wider by every quarter turn — to place the evil Capitol in the center. The rest was just guesswork.

Quoted

"I was interested in how different the story was from the [typical] unification of a country."

The whole project took V. Arrow and her friend about four and a half days combined to research and six to seven hours to draw out. But she's been tinkering with details over the last six months to make it more scientifically accurate.

This isn't her first world map

Arrow also completed one detailing the world of "Matched" by Ally Condie. But the Panem map will always hold a special place. She was especially proud that the A.V. Club wrote about her efforts, even though they did mention she might be a bit crazy. "I consider it a nerd badge of honor to be called a 'fruit loop.'"

Behind the art

V. Arrow considered doing a map of the clock arena from "Catching Fire," but thought it wouldn't be a big challenge.

In her upcoming book "The Panem Companion," Arrow details the sociological and psychological implications of Panem. ● METRO

TV watch list

'Luck'

DRAMA. What was initially meant to be the first season finale — and a thrilling one at that, involving a climatic race — has become the series conclusion of this fine David Milch/Michael Mann horse-racing drama. The inner workings of the racetrack were on full view in this series; it's sad that production was halted and ultimately cancelled following the death of a horse during the filming of what would have been Season 2. Series finale, Sunday, 9 p.m., HBO

'Leave it to Niecy'

REALITY. Is it a reality show? A documentary? A sitcom? "Leave it to Niecy," following the antics of Niecy Nash and her family, claims to be a little of all those things. Unfortunately, the situations are so contrived, it fails at them all. Series premiere, Sunday, 10 p.m., TLC

'Mythbusters'

REALITY. Adam and Jamie are

'Ball Boys'

REALITY. Like "Pawn Stars" before it, this reality show from that hit series's producers aims to draw more interest in other people's "junk" — but this time, the wares for sale are sports memorabilia. Series premiere, Saturday, 3 p.m., ABC AMBER RAY

3 Most incredible nature scenes filmed for 'Frozen Planet'

► Elizabeth White, one of the directors behind the new series documenting life at the polar regions, shares her 'holy grail' moments caught while cameras were rolling

1 First complete filming of a killer whale "wave wash," in which hunting orcas create giant waves to wash seals off ice floes
"We had tantalizing reports of this behavior from observers on cruise ships, the diaries of the early explorers and also a shaky tourist video," says White, whose crew went to the Antarctic to capture its own footage of this phenomenon, said to be the most complex team hunt in the whole of the animal kingdom. "Among large ice floes peppered with sun-bathing seals, the crew saw some tall dorsal fins and killer whales coming vertically out of the water to have a look around. Remarkably, right in front their eyes, a pod of killer whales prospected an ice floe, turned and generated a wave which washed over a nearby floe. What they revealed to the scientists was a number of things — that killer whales have a real preference for Weddell seals, not crabeaters (as had previously been proposed), that they use different techniques to break up floes of different sizes and that different pods behave differently — some are bold and fearless and others more cautious."

2 Footage of the brinicle, an underwater ice stalactite that plunges toward the seabed and kills everything it touches

"This was an unexpected discovery for the 'Frozen Planet' team," admits White. "Relatively few people have dived in Antarctica, and there is still much to learn about the marine life there. [The crew was] aware of these bizarre ice chandeliers — brinicles — hanging from the sea ice above, but it was only when filming something else that they accidentally witnessed one forming. This was an amazing opportunity to use time-lapse techniques to really show what happens when these bizarre formations grow. This phenomenon had never been filmed before."

3 Aerial footage of Antarctica retracing the steps of early explorers Robert F. Scott and Roald Amundsen

"We were aware that 'Frozen Planet' would be airing exactly 100 years after the tragic story of Scott and his team, as they battled to be the first men to stand at the geographical South Pole. Retracing their epic journey — across the trans-Antarctic mountains, mighty Beardmore Glacier and up onto the vast polar plateau — felt a very symbolic journey to make, even if done using helicopters and planes, rather than by foot."

AMBER RAY

► Retro pop-rockers talk about a beautiful Southern lake and not-as-disgusting-as-it-sounds 'meth beach' of Philly ► Why two tourmates became bandmates

DAY AFTERNOON

There are at least two songs in the rock canon that name check Lake Charles, La.: Lucinda Williams' "Lake Charles" and The Band's "Cripple Creek." Dr. Dog singer Scott McMicken ponders that lake on a sunny, late winter's day, while struck by its beauty. Does he feel a song coming on?

"I don't think I've earned the right to write a song about it," he tells Metro humbly. "Maybe one day." While you'd think the Philadelphia-based retro pop-rockers to be Yankees through and through, McMicken says he has an affinity for the South. "I love the general air down here. It's one of our best areas for touring."

Growing up in rural Pennsylvania not far from the Delaware border puts him in a North/South gray area, but he says his heart now belongs to Philly, even though the band has experienced the city's worst aspects. Their studio, for instance, is called Meth Beach for a reason.

"It's in a troubled part of Philly," says McMicken of their Kensington studio. "When we moved into our studio, there had been a meth lab across the street. It exploded and set fire to the building. For some reason, there was a busted old boat nearby. There are beautiful sunsets and seagulls from the Delaware River; it felt like a beach."

No 'Shame'

In between Dr. Dog's 2010 album "Shame, Shame" and their February-released "Be The Void," the quintet expanded to a six-piece, adding multi-instrumentalist Dimitri Manos and swapping in new drummer Eric Slick.

"We had a lot of time playing together on tour before we made 'The Void.' We really settled in together," says McMicken. "Those guys went from stepping in to replicate what we did on 'Shame' to developing the music."

#1 DAILY NEWSPAPER IN CENTER CITY

The leading ladies

- The Flamenco Festival puts women at center stage
- 'I wanted to push the boundaries,' says founder

In the early '70s, a Spanish flamenco dancer performed a small demonstration in Elba Hevia y Vaca's Bolivian village. The experience would shape the next 40 years of her life.

"What awakened in me was the emotions that flamenco allows you to express," explains Hevia y Vaca. "As a 13-year-old girl, I was extremely ecstatic to discover that there were movements my body could make to express things I was feeling."

But as she delved further into her study, she became increasingly dismayed by the typical presentation of women in the art form. In Hevia y Vaca's view, the dictatorship of Francisco Franco instilled a repressive, misogynistic undertone to Spain's national dance — one that persists to this day.

In 2000, she finally founded her own flamenco ensemble, Pasion y Arte, and she made sure it had a distinctly feminist bent.

"I wanted to push the boundaries — to experience flamenco as a woman, not as a loved-other, or a sexual object. The only way I could do that was to form my own company," she explains.

This week marks the opening of the first Philadelphia Flamenco Festival, produced by Pasion y Arte. Running until the end of the month, the celebration features performances and master classes by renowned Spanish dancer Rosario Toledo at Temple University, Swarthmore College and Christ Church Neighborhood House. "In Spain, there are so many wonderful dancers changing the aesthetic and empowering women," says Hevia y Vaca. "Philadelphia hasn't had the opportunity to see that."

What will happen when 'Mad Men' returns? In one word: 'Change'

► 'Surprises,' 'lust' and 'envy' also describe Season 5, say the series' creator and cast ► Of course, that describes any season of this sophisticated period drama

When we sat down with "Mad Men" creator Matthew Weiner and stars Jon Hamm and John Slattery leading up to Sunday night's Season 5 premiere, we knew specific storylines were off-limits conversation with this plot-guarding group. So to gain insight into what our favorite cigarette-smoking, martini-swilling advertising executives of the 1960s are up to, we asked for the best words that describe the new episodes. The "Men" break down the Top 5.

1 Change: "Every season seems to be about how we deal with change," admits Weiner, who wrote Sunday's two-hour premiere. "That's part of why I picked that period [for the show's setting], but it's also why I tell you how old everybody is in the show. I say the ages of the characters specifically and you can start identifying with them. They are growing."

FRANK OCKENFELS/AMC

2 Surprises: The "Mad Men" characters surprise viewers on a regular basis — secretive ad man Don Draper in particular, who impulsively proposed to his secretary in last season's finale. And while the dapper Don even catches the actor who portrays him off-guard sometimes, Hamm says the man in the impeccably tailored suit never surprises himself.

"He's a creative guy," says Hamm. "He's an interesting guy. But I think he is very aware of who is he, even for a guy who is ostensibly somebody else. I think it's a big part of what his central darkness is all about. He knows himself too well — and he's not a fan."

3 Lust and envy: "Those are two words you can use to describe every season," says

Slattery, who plays longtime agency partner and ladies' man Roger Sterling. "It's a competitive place filled with dissatisfied people."

4 Happy and content: "Don's surprisingly content," Hamm says of his character's headspace when Season 5 opens. "As much as that can be a good thing, I think that sometimes it's not. He's aspiring to be happy and content. ... [But] what happens when you get what you want?"

Don's definitions of "happy" and "content" have never lined up with the typical American dream. Their meaning "is changeable for him," Hamm says. "That's the problem with Don — he thinks he wants one thing, and maybe he was wrong."

5 Success: Weiner reiterates that "change is happening very rapidly," not just on "Mad Men," but in 2012, too. "The country has had a huge blow to its self-esteem," he says, drawing parallels to the wars and revolutions of both eras. "Success will come," he says, "and we may not even be able to recognize it."

He's talking about success both in his characters' — and viewers' — professional and personal lives.

"Success is such a product of expectation," he says. "When you set the goal, you can get the goal. But even the delay of getting the goal can take away the feelings of success."

Style interview

Costume designer Janie Bryant

The new season of "Mad Men" has been shrouded in CIA-like secrecy. As the premiere date draws closer, we try our best to extract a few clues about what to expect from costume designer Janie Bryant.

Now that we're just days away from the season premiere and the cast photos have been released, what can you reveal about the look of the characters? How has their wardrobe evolved since last season?

Honestly, I'm sworn to secrecy until the premiere on March 25. You'll have to wait and see!

Okay, how does the new "Mad Men" collection for Banana Republic reflect the look of Season 5?

Our second collection was inspired by the characters while at the club, because of the fun contrast to the home and office settings. It's about an era of lounging poolside or attending a Fourth of July barbecue in a crisp blue polo shirt and stunning the crowd in a lush ivory dress.

Were you obligated to design it in such a way that wouldn't give away too many details about the actual show?

For this collection, [Banana Republic creative director Simon Kneen] and I talked a lot about the characters and scenes that inspired us, the roles they were playing [and] the emotions they're going through, and [we] worked to translate all that context into beautiful design. We stayed with the traditional "Mad Men" look that viewers have come to love.

The new collection manages to feel both vintage and very 2012. It was about taking a vintage look and updating it with a modern twist. We took some of our favorite trending colors and prints, like the bright pinks and large florals in some of the women's pieces, and fit them on a '60s silhouette, like a capri pant or nip-waist dress.

The first four seasons of "Mad Men" helped spark a global obsession with the midcentury way of dressing, influencing an entire season of ready-to-wear collections. Do you think Season 5 will do the same thing for late '60s dressing?

People identify with the costume design of the characters and there has already been a clear resurgence of 1960s trends on runways this spring. Beautiful, dressed-up tailoring with emphasis on the waist, bright colors for ladies and tailored, slim-cut apparel for men are all making a comeback.

The Free TV Hotlines are ringing off the hook.

That's because Philadelphia area residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication are getting Free TV thanks to an amazing razor-thin invention called Clear-Cast™.

Philadelphia area residents who get the Clear-Cast by calling the Free TV Hotlines at 1-888-862-3559 or 1-888-862-2147 before the 48-hour order deadline ends can get over 953 crystal clear over-the-air digital TV shows each year for free and get rid of their cable or satellite bills¹.

This is all possible because a U.S. federal law makes TV broadcasters transmit their signals in a digital format, which allows everyone to receive digital broadcast signals for free with no monthly bills.

These are the over-the-air broadcast signals that the cable and satellite companies get and then re-transmit to you for a hefty charge every month.

Here's how it works. The Clear-Cast's advanced design links up directly to receive local and national shows being broadcast in your area. This allows people everywhere to bypass the cable and satellite middleman and get crystal clear digital and high definition over-the-air broadcast signals free of charge.

Clear-Cast was invented by Dr. Argy Petros, a renowned NASA Space Technology Hall of Fame scientist who currently holds 22 U.S. Gov't issued patents. For the past 20 years, he has specialized in developing antenna systems for NASA, Motorola, XM Satellite Radio and companies around the world.

His latest patent-pending invention, Clear-Cast, is a razor-thin indoor digital HDTV antenna that delivers picture-perfect reception without a cable or internet connection, without a satellite dish and without any monthly bills.

"I invented the Clear-Cast digital HDTV antenna because I just don't think people should have to keep paying for TV when they can get it for free," said Dr. Petros.

"Nobody needs to pay for hundreds of channels and thousands of shows they really never watch when the Clear-Cast may give you up to 53 channels and up to 953 shows to watch for free with no monthly bills. That's why people everywhere can cancel their cable or satellite bills and save hundreds of dollars every single year," he said.

"People who get the Clear-Cast will say it feels like getting an extra paycheck every month. That's because it doesn't pull in those expensive cable and satellite-only pay channels so all the money you were spending on cable and satellite bills will go back in your pocket every month," Dr. Petros said.

And here's the best part. With the advanced design of the Clear-Cast antenna you'll get the channels being broadcast in your area for Free with no monthly bills.

That way you can channel surf through the favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels you'll get depends on where you live. People living in large metropolitan areas may get up to 53 static-free channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even if you're in a rural area that just pulls in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts there's up to 953 shows each year to watch for free.

The picture quality with the Clear-Cast in many cases is actually better because cable and satellite companies compress their bandwidth depending on the channel. This compression can result in a loss of picture definition and detail. This does not happen with Clear-Cast because you get virtually all pure uncompressed signals direct from the broadcasters for free.

Clear-Cast was engineered to link up directly to local and national broadcasts like a huge outdoor directional antenna but in a lightweight, slim-line package. Its sturdy copper alloy and polymer construction will most likely far outlast your TV.

It just couldn't be any easier to get Free over-the-air digital TV shows with the Clear-Cast. Simply plug it into your TV and place the Clear-Cast on a window pane. It works on virtually any model TV and is easily hidden out of sight behind a curtain or window treatment.

Thousands of Philadelphia area residents are expected to call to get Clear-Cast because it just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get hundreds of shows absolutely free.

So, Philadelphia area residents lucky enough to find their zip code listed in today's publication need to immediately call the Free TV Hotlines before the 48-hour deadline ends to get the Clear-Cast that gives everyone Free TV. If lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. ■

WEEKEND, MARCH 23-25, 2012

Time to toss your takeout menus

By the time you get home from work you're starving, tired and ready to pop a frozen burrito in the micro. (Or, even better yet, order pizza!) But there's still hope for home-prepared meals in your future. U.K. culinary star Sophie Wright — the youngest head chef in England at age 20 — insists making dinner doesn't have to be time- or labor-intensive.

"You just need to be well organized," says Wright. "You need to have an idea [of a recipe] in the back of your head. Maybe flick through a cookbook the night before. Then, rather than stopping for a slice of pizza on the way home, stop at the supermarket and pick up a few bits and make a really nice meal."

If this sounds like a case of easier-said-than-done, Wright shows us how in her new book, "Home at 7, Dinner at 8," which is filled with 80 easy, fancy-sounding recipes, such as Honey Roasted Pork Tenderloin and Red Wine, Gorgonzola and Orange Risotto that can be in your belly in less than an hour.

Taking into account that Wright chops food a lot faster than us novice cooks, the chef added on extra time to each recipe and made sure not to use too many pans ("It's horrible washing up after you cook"). But the true test: "My guinea pig is my boyfriend, who is the most incompetent cook," she says, laughing. "I know that if he can do it, anyone can."

TINA CHADHA
tina.chadha@metro.us

Wright's tips

- ▶ Keep a nonstick frying pan.
- ▶ Always stock your pantry with olive oil, salt, pepper and staple spices: ground cumin, ground coriander, chili and paprika. You can make anything taste really good with these.
- ▶ Freeze extra fresh herbs so you have them ready to go for the next time.

- ▶ When chopping an onion, chop an extra one and store it in a sandwich bag in your fridge for the next day.
- ▶ When cooking sweet potato or butternut squash, don't bother peeling. You can eat the skin, and it will add flavor and texture to your dish.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Kardashian opens up about her divorce

Kim Kardashian opened up to Jay Leno about her quickie marriage to Kris Humphries on Wednesday night. It was a lot of what you'd expect: It was nobody's fault, "she still believes in love," blah, blah, blah. Basically, Kardashian did a great job of making a divorce sound as un-juicy as possible (which is very hard to do).

"I'm a girl who really believes in love, I'm in love with love and I thought this was it for me," she told Leno, never referring to Humphries by name, only as "someone else."

The 31-year-old said that when she "realized [the marriage] wasn't [what] I thought," she "tried to be really respectful of everyone involved."

"I've heard stories of people who were married for 10 years and they knew it wasn't right, but they wanted to stick it out and had kids," she said. "I want that forever. I believed in love, I still do. But to be fair to everyone, I knew I had to end it, and I'm OK with that decision."

"I'm a girl who really believes in love. I'm in love with love."

KIM KARDASHIAN

I'm glad she still believes in love. And I rest easy at night knowing she probably also still believes in the kind of love that she can make the most money off of.

Houston cause of death: Accidental drowning

In their official cause of death report, released yesterday, the L.A. County coroner concludes that Whitney Houston died from accidental drowning but that heart disease and cocaine use were also factors when she died on Feb. 11.

The report also states that at the time of death, the singer had cocaine in her system, although investigators found no evidence of cocaine in her room.

TMZ.com states that a source "close to the investigation" says that it's still "very possible" that Houston had a heart attack that caused her to lose consciousness and drown.

Talking points

Madonna making Russian waves

Madonna is set to return to Russia on her tour this summer, and the planned visit is already causing controversy, as the pop icon says she plans to defy a new statute in St. Petersburg that outlaws promoting homosexuality. "I will come to St. Petersburg to speak up for the gay community and to give strength and inspiration to anyone who is or feels oppressed. I'm a freedom fighter," Madonna said in an e-mail, according to Bloomberg. "I don't run away from adversity. I will speak during my show about this ridiculous atrocity." Madonna is scheduled to perform in Moscow on Aug. 7 and St. Petersburg on Aug. 9.

Kelly and Valderrama: An item?

Minka Kelly and Wilmer Valderrama have been turning heads with their public displays of affection, according to Us Weekly. The rumored couple popped up at Greystone Manor Supperclub in West Hollywood, where "they were kissing and grinding," a source says. "They were very flirty and dancing close. They even left with each other." The pair were also spotted at Disneyland last month and having dinner earlier this month. So how serious are things getting between Valderrama and Kelly, who split with Yankees star Derek Jeter last year? "I wouldn't say they're boyfriend and girlfriend," a source says. "But he's started ignoring calls from some of his other girls."

Tebow has his eye on Agron

NFL star Tim Tebow, who was traded to the New York Jets this week, apparently has things besides football on his mind. Tebow reportedly has his eye on "Glee" star Dianna Agron, despite the actress' ongoing relationship with "Captain America" sidekick Sebastian Stan, according to Fox News. "Tim has made no secret that he likes Dianna, and told her so, but she has remained faithful to Sebastian," a source says. A rumored split between the couple may be just the opening Tebow needs, even if Agron's rep says reports of a breakup with Stan are "not true."

Rimes to judge 'The X Factor'?

Dianna Agron

Eddie Cibrian confirms that wife LeAnn Rimes has been in talks about joining the judge's table on "The X Factor," according to Extra. "They've been talking. I have no idea what's going on with that. I think they've been talking to a lot of people," Cibrian says. "I think she would be unbelievable."

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad
The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Black-and-white worldview falls flat

RE: "TWO-STATE SOLUTION FOR LEFT AND RIGHT": Mr. Tordoff has some rudimentary mistakes in his estimation of the supposed class war. Liberals are against the reprehensible way that sycophants with no remorse rape the planet, start religious and economic wars for their own gain, and a host of other crimes against humanity. Academics are smart enough to understand fundamental truths like climate change and evolution and that everyone will not be rich. It is not education, it is the application of that thought process. BRIAN GRAU, VIA E-MAIL

How easy it must be for Mr. Tordoff to live in such a black and white world of brave heroes and cowardly intellectuals, and no shades of gray. If only we lived in that world: The right would quickly become a plutocratic theocracy that teaches myths instead of facts in science class, where corporations run roughshod over the environment and labor, and the poor and elderly are left to die in the streets. Meanwhile, the left would have all the doctors, economists, and the technical innovators that drive our economy. PATRICK COLE, VIA E-MAIL

Mr. Tordoff's rant regurgitates many strawmen right-wingers use to misportray the left. A majority of us are not for "equality of outcome" but "equality of opportunity." We support a strong social safety net, which is not equivalent to or inclusive of punishing success and rewarding dependency. Labeling us as meddling, daft academics is more Limbaugh-esque characterization. I would advise people like Joshua to engage themselves in more than just conservative media and actually develop their own opinions of liberals instead of embracing the boogiemens created by conservative outlets.

KENNETH BARLOW, VIA E-MAIL

Joshua Tordoff's diatribe spews the typical (false) right-wing stereotypes. There are capable managers and war heroes on both sides of the political spectrum. Warren Buffet, Larry Page, David Geffen, Barry Gordy, Steve Jobs, Jeffrey Katzenberg and Bill Gates would go to the left of Tordoff's divide. They have managed more than a "church bake sale." Liberals Dan Inouye, Bob Kerrey, George McGovern, Harry Tru-

GREGORY S. HILL, PHILADELPHIA

President isn't a liberal; he's fascist

RE: "WHAT'S SO LIBERAL ABOUT MR. OBAMA?": So the president isn't a socialist liberal because he's not anti-bank, anti-bailout, anti-tax cuts and anti-gay marriage? Sure he appears more on the moderate side when he takes the establishment position so readily; sure we can ignore his associations with known communists during his college days; and let's also ignore his negligence to civil liberties (via the NDAA). So let's now call him what he really is: a fascist. HAN HAUGEN, VIA E-MAIL

Philly goes to the dogs

► Underdogs hopes to bring back that other Philadelphia sandwich ► Where to get your kicked-up hot dog fix

RICARD LARMA/METRO

► Topping it all: Underdogs' (132 S. 17th St., www.underdogspilly.com) "Haute Dog" offerings go beyond the basics.

Underdogs, a new hot dog and sausage spot in Center City, has a militant logo: a clenched red fist gripping a hot dog. So it's not surprising that owner Robert Amar has a manifesto. "Nobody else is doing it, so let's feed ourselves," says Amar, a local restaurant vet who has worked at Budakan and Fare. "For 25 years I've observed how restaurants focus on creating the perfect $30 entree while most of the staff, and most other people, can't afford a meal over $10. This is wrong. Why work so hard to feed such a small group of people? Underdogs is about us feeding ourselves."

In addition to Amar's working-class mission, Underdogs is an effort to reconnect with the city's forgotten hot dog history. "This town was known for dogs long before cheesesteaks," he says, "and it's a shame that this classic Philadelphia food has largely disappeared."

The "American Classics" section of the menu offers 12 city-specific dogs and sausages (Chicago, New York and Warsaw are represented), including a traditional Philly dog with fishcake, mustard and chopped onions called The Back In The Day. The "Haute Dogs" section gets a bit more avant-garde, where options like the My Thai dog with spicy peanut sauce and green papaya slaw are designed to challenge people's expectations.

Other top dogs

Underdogs has some cute-name competition:

► The Dapper Dog
Second and Poplar streets
www.thedapperdog.org

The Dapper Dog truck has been serving dogs, like the Italian-themed Dolce Vita, to late-night crowds in Northern Liberties for two years. Though it hibernates during the winter months, the truck's been back in action since March 9.

► Hot Diggity!
630 South St.
www.thehotdiggity.com
Founded by four childhood friends who shared an interest in franks, Hot Diggity! has been pushing dogs since last June. Alongside several regional options is its pepper hash-topped version of the classic Philly dog, The Philly Surf & Turf.

Supper makes a comeback

Nestled on the fringe of Penn's campus, City Tap House is known for its extensive beer list, which offers 60-plus seasonally rotated taps. But ever since the introduction of its "Daily Supper" series this past winter, patrons have scooted from barstools to dining tables, enjoying a range of themed specials every Monday through Saturday.

From "Southern Cooking" and "Game Night" to "Homesick Texans" and "On the Hook," each week's menu boasts the flavor and familiarity of regional ingredients and down-home traditions.

We asked executive chef Ralph Kane about the reintroduction of supper-style meals to the dinner dining scene.

ply put, we prefer to think of our guest as such — coming into our home for a comforting supper, rather than a dinner.

How does the nostalgia associated with home-cooked, family-style meals translate when you're dining out?

We use familiar ingredients with familiar dishes, expressing ourselves with a playful twist. I enjoy showcasing that we can and will produce comfort foods that our guest's grandmother might have enjoyed cooking, while also taking pride in the fact that I can change it up to fit a gastropub setting.

What's your personal favorite Daily Supper?

It's too difficult for me to decide which is my favorite Daily Supper — that's like asking which niece or nephew is my favorite. They all hold a special place in my heart.

Brunch notes

Tashan
Sundays,
11 a.m.-2:30 p.m.
www.mytashan.com

Good news, brunch bunch: The still-sparkling Tashan just introduced their brunch menu, and they packed it full of coconut anise pancakes, warm dahiya oatmeal and Mangalorean sausages. And yes — those impossibly fluffy masala donuts made the cut, and we're going to say it's fine to drink the cardamom syrup.

Russet
Saturdays and Sundays,
10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Also new to the brunch game is Center City BYOB Russet. Like its dinner menu, the focus is seasonal and local with dishes such as duck and bacon pate, scallop and shrimp crepes and cheesy grits.

Where would Draper drink?

- The 'Mad Men' premiere wouldn't be complete without a proper drink
- Where to sip this weekend

Reserve
123 Chestnut St.
www.reservephilly.com

With a cigar lounge and 100-plus bourbon list, we almost wonder if Reserve timed its opening for the Season 5 premiere. The brand-new Old City restaurant and bar is hosting a viewing party Sunday (8 p.m. to 11 p.m.) complete with throwback martini and oyster specials. Dress code? That'd be Joan Holloway-hot.

Southwark
701 S. Fourth St.
www.southwarkrestaurant.com
There's not a trend to be found at this Queen Village mainstay. Just stiff drinks, a handful of confident dishes and friendly-enough barkeeps who preside over the room with an expectation of class—or at least Don Draper-level discretion.

Butcher & Singer
1500 Walnut St.
www.butcherandsinger.com

On any other weekend, with its retro leather banquettes and "steaks and chops" menu, Butcher & Singer can feel a little too much like a Starr Productions feature film. But this week, we can't think of a better way to break your "Mad Men" fast than a martini-fueled Porterhouse and Baked Alaska power lunch in the

Cocktail of the week

Pisco Sour

It's always a couple degrees warmer at Rum Bar, but its new spring cocktail menu is extra sunny. You've got your daiquiris (including a sweet-and-spicy version), your punch (their third incarnation, which starts off with Jamaican and Bajan rums) and some cucumber guest spots. But first on our list is the Pisco Sour, the national drink of Chile and Peru that adds a little pucker to the summery spirit.

Breaking down Sweet Sixteen

► Blue Bloods highlight NCAA tourney ► Kentucky in driver's seat ► UNC in trouble? ► Tune in Friday

The NCAA tournament continues this weekend in what can best be described as Blue Blood Friday.

North Carolina, Kentucky, Indiana and Kansas bring a total of 20 national championships to the Sweet Sixteen. The Wildcats are the odds-on favorites to win it all, according to multiple sports books.

The main storyline will be the health of North Carolina point guard Kendall Marshall. He fractured his right wrist last week, but his cast was removed. His status is uncertain.

"What we're going to do is just practice every day, and if something weird happens that they say he can play, I'm probably going to let the guy play. But I just do not foresee that happening," UNC coach Roy Williams told ESPN.

With that mind, let's break down Friday's games:

Baylor (29-7) vs. Xavier (23-12)
Friday, 7:15 p.m.

Baylor might be the only team that can push Kentucky out of the blue blood party. The Bears are led by NBA prospects Perry Jones and Quincy Miller, but it might be the silky smooth shooting of Brady Heslip that gets them to New Orleans. Xavier will pin all their hopes on all-world point guard Tu Holloway.

Pick: Baylor 66, Xavier 55

Ohio (29-7) vs. N. Carolina (31-5)
Friday, 7:47 p.m.

All eyes will be on Kendall Marshall's right wrist. If he can't go, look for Stilman White and Justin Watts to split the minutes. Ohio has been a nice Cinderella story, but they just don't have the firepower to keep up with the Heels, even without Marshall.

Pick: UNC 74, Ohio 60

Kentucky (34-2) vs. Indiana (27-8)
Friday, 9:45 p.m.

The marquee matchup of the weekend — and most likely the entire tournament — is a rematch of a Dec. 10 contest. The Hoosiers won that one in dramatic fashion, following a last-second three. But this appears to be John Calipari's year and arguably his most talented team. The Wildcats are blowing teams out with an average win margin of 15.5.

Pick: UK 70, Indiana 66

NC State (24-12) vs. Kansas (29-6)
Friday, 10:17 p.m.

The Jayhawks have looked uninterested at times in this tourney and barely survived No. 10 Purdue in the last round. At one point, Kansas coach Bill Self was heard screaming, "You told me you were ready!" They better be ready because NC State is enjoying their first trip to the Dance in six years. The key matchup to watch will be Kansas' Thomas Robinson vs. State's C.J. Leslie.

Pick: Kansas 60, NC State 58

Wayns commits
Villanova junior guard Maalik Wayns officially declared for the NBA draft Thursday.

Wayns averaged 17.6 points and 4.6 assists per game for the Wildcats. He is the first player to leave Villanova early since Kyle Lowry in 2006.

WEEKEND, MARCH 23-25, 2012

Three players to watch

DJ Cooper G, Ohio

This isn't Cooper's first dance. The 5-foot-11 guard helped the Bobcats take down No. 3 Georgetown in 2010 when he poured in 23 points. Two years later, the junior is averaging 20 points per contest in two upset wins over No. 4 Michigan and No. 12 South Florida. Look for him to take advantage of a Kendall Marshall-less North Carolina squad.

Christian Watford F, Indiana

He's the one who hit "The Shot II" — as some in Hoosier land call his buzzer-beating trey to beat Kentucky — and he'll be sure to be on the minds of the Wildcats. In fact, ESPN has been running a promo commercial featuring Watford's game-winner on loop this past week. "It goes in ▶ Cooper's one to keep an eye on.

every time," Indiana coach Tom Crean said.

Tyshawn Taylor G, Kansas

The Jayhawks are led by National Player of the Year candidate, 6-foot-8 forward Thomas Robinson, but Taylor is the heart and soul. He's struggled so far in this NCAA tournament, with his scoring average dipping nearly seven whole points, so it's time to step up. The 6-foot-3 Taylor will have his work cut out for him against a bigger, more physical NC State backcourt.
